Next week will be the final one in the work of the political campaign. The introduction of a third ticket by an independent element dissatisfied with may. oralty nominations of both the Republican and Democratic parties to Newark, has made it almost impossible to get a line on the outcome of the election. The Democrats are hopeful of carrying the city of Newark for their candidate for Mayor, and also of carrying the Eighth Congressional District for their Conlican Assembly ticket will be defeated. In the First ward. The regular Republican candidate for Mayor of Newark was the guest of the Liquor Dealers' Association during the past week, and made a speech which has further complicated the illustion of the regular Republicane, and given additional zest to the independent movement. The effect of recent temperance legislation is manifesting itself in the mayoralty fight in Newark. It is a case where a local issue is made paramount, and the State and National issues involved in the campaign are made secondary. The Newark mayoralty fight is acquant himself beforehand, as far as likely to give rise to a strong opposition to the single election plan. When the elections were merged it was feared that the effect of the law would prove detrimental to the proper consideration of local matters by the voters. The effect seems to be the reverse. In the current campaign Assemblymen are to be chosen who will elect a United States Senator. Members of Congress are also to be chosen, but these important State and National matters are secondary to the moral leave lovolved in the Newark mayoralty fight. An impression pravalls that the R-public-ns were led luto a skilfully fald trap in taking up temperance legislation. The influences which originated the temperance measure passed by the Legislature and stirred up the agitation of it, is not conspicuous now in rallying to the support of the party that passed the measure. The unfortunate spectacle is now beheld of the Republican candidate for Mayor of the city of Newark denouncing the temperance measure and another Republican candidate supporting the measure, and pledged, if elected, to enforce it. The fact is apparent that the Reaublican party is split in two. Perhaps the originators of the temperance measure had such an end in view when they

To Divide Assessment. Mayor Arthur J. Lockwood and members of the Road Committee of the Gien Ridge Council met on Monday night and discussed the question of assessments levied on property owners directly bene-At the meeting of the Council two weeks ago property owners turned out in large numbers and protested against the assessments levied, and while all said that they were willing to pay their share for the improvement, they objected to the entire coet being saddled upon them. They declared that the assessment should be levied on the borough at large and placed in the tax levy.

On Monday night it was decided to any of the following symptoms, Dr. recommend to the Council that the assessment, amounting to $6,000, be diwided, whereby one-half will be put in the tax levy and the remainder levied directly on the property owners bene-Ried. This, it is believed, will be satis-

Vote Here.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN

SIR-As residents of Bloomfield and Gleq Ridge we cannot vote in the Hughes-Hearst contest in New York State, no matter how intensely interested in that. But every voter here should take part in the election which we have not only to fill local and county offices, but also to give us a new lower house both in Congress and in the Legislature To vote intelligently the voter should possible, with the candidates between whom he is to choose.
